ABSTRACT

A list of currently available phonorecords and magnetic tape cassettes of American poetry and poets is presented. Listed alphabetically by poet, each citation includes record title, a list of poems on the record, number of records in the set, publisher, and publisher's item number. Entries are analytical in that all works of one poet are listed under his name, including works that are only part of a collection of recordings of several poets' works. A list of publishers' names and addresses is attached. (LS)

Dickenson, Emily	Poems and Letters of Emily Dickenson read by Julie Harris This is my letter to the world The soul selects her own society Pain has an element of blank Hope is the thing with feathers I'm nobody! Who are you? I'll tell you how the sun rose I cautious scanned my little life If you were coming in the fall My river runs to thee I reason, earth is short I never lost as much but twice I died for beauty, but was scarce There came a wind like a bugle Safe in their alabaster chambers I years had been from home Love is anterior to life I cannot live with you My life closed twice before its close I never saw a moor To fight aloud is very brave Because I could not stop for Death A toad can die of light! I heard a fly buzz when I died I like to see it lap the miles Before I got my eye put out To make a prairie it takes a one bee A narrow fellow in the grass A bird came down the walk What soft cherubic creatures I taste a liquor never brewed Besides the autumn poets sing The heart asks pleasure first The sky is low,the clouds are mean There's a certain slant of light I felt a funeral in my brain After great pain a formal feeling comes I dwell in possibility	3-Caedmon-TC-1119
